On Friday evening list, at 7 o'clock, the propeller Troy, Capt. Warren, left this port on her regular reip for Grand Haven, Mich. About an hour afforwards, when eight or nine milles out, and the results of the result hour afterwards, were tight or into mittee out; the water jacket burst, severely excluding John Rubinson, Angus Cameron, (both firemen.) and Henry McNesbitt, lat engineer. The explosion was gwing to a copper pipe leading from the water jacket to the steam boiler becoming checked with sediment, and the force-sump which feeds the water jacket being constantly at work, the water thus forced in could not es-cape sufficiently fast through the pipe to the boller to relieve the hydramic pressure, the inev-

There were about twenty-five passengers on the board, only one of whom was slightly scalded.—

At the time of the explosion, he was below attending to some cattle belonging to him; but the slight injury received did not prevent him from proceeding on his journey on Saturday.

Of the men belonging to the boat, the most was seriously injured was John Robinson, one of the firetime. He was very bully scalded, and after limitation in great account of the process.

lingering in great agony four and a half hours, he died. The deceased had joined the propeller the same day on which the accident happened, and had previously been employed on some of the Lake steam marine. He was about 23 years of age, and his parents reside in Lowell, Mich. The body was brought to this port, and buried on Saturday.
